Though the COVID-19 vaccine development was fast, it did not skip steps.

The development of the COVID-19 vaccines did not cut corners on testing for safety and efficacy. The vaccines were made using processes that have been developed and tested over many years, and which are designed to make — and thoroughly test — vaccines quickly in case of an infectious disease pandemic like we are seeing with COVID-19.

Source: Johns Hopkins Medicine

LENAWEE COUNTY HEALTH DEPARTMENT